

INT. CAM AND MITCH'S HOUSE - KITCHEN - LATE NIGHT

Cam is huddled in the kitchen in the dark, lit up only by a night light. He is ferociously eating something, although "what" is still a mystery. Mitch, standing in the doorway, flicks on the lights.

MITCH

What are you eating, Cam?

CAM

Nothing! Just a glass of water!

MITCH

That's a lot of chewing for a glass of water.

CAM

It had ice.

MITCH

Cam, show me what's behind your back right now. Please, please, please tell me it's not the snicker doodles I baked for the new neighbors.

CAM

How dare you accuse me of eating something you told me not to! Do I look like an animal?

MITCH

Cam. Now.

Cam reveals in shame that he has been knawing on a large broccoli stalk.

MITCH

What...what is this? You snuck out of bed at two in the morning to eat unseasoned, raw broccoli?

CAM

I eat vegetables too, Mitch!

MITCH

I have never seen you elect to eat vegetables for fun in your entire life.

CAM

Fine! You caught me. I'm... I'm trying to lose some weight.

MITCH

Oh. Okay. I didn't realize. Are you trying to get healthier? Are you feeling discontent with yourself?

CAM

God no, I'm fabulous. I'm just mad because I can't fit into my favorite pair of Marc Jacob pants right now.

MITCH

You mean the red ones? Thank god.

CAM

What?

MITCH

I meant, "what a shame".

CAM

Wait a hot second. Why were you up to catch me on my little adventure? Were you gonna sneak a cookie?

MITCH

No I don't eat sugar past ten. Sugar after brushing your teeth is detrimental to-

CAM

Oh I don't want your lectures, Mitch. I want answers!

MITCH

If you must know, I was going to bake a cake. Something to give along with the cookies.

CAM

And you call me extra?

MITCH

I need them to like us, Cam!

CAM

Why? Why is it so important for the Newtons to like us? I don't get it!

MITCH

It's Lily! She doesn't have any friends yet. They have a daughter her age and if I have my way they'll be best friends by the age of three!

CAM

You are worried because our barely two year old doesn't have a clique of girlfriends yet? Seriously?

MITCH

I just want the best for her!

CAM

She doesn't have the vocab to foster a friendship right now. Unless they can sustain an intelligent conversation on "Daddy" and "doodoo" alone.

MITCH

Okay, okay, I jumped the gun. I just want to make sure she has more friends than I did growing up.

CAM

Don't worry, she will. Most people do.

MITCH

Hey!

CAM

And besides, if all else fails, we'll be her best friends.

MITCH

That's a terrifying prospect... but I am strangely comforted. Let's go to bed.

CAM

Yes please. All this secret keeping has made me exhausted.

MITCH

Hey, if you want, I can train you a bit. We can go on jogs and eat smoothies together.

CAM

I love you, but that sounds like hell. I give up. I'll just wear the yellow ones from now on, they have some give.

MITCH

Oh no.
